

Olympic Graphic Arts

Headquarters: Forks, WA

Company Established: 1973

Employees: 6 full time

Primary Product: Turn-key Printing Solutions, Office & Art Supplies

Since 1973, Olympic Graphic Arts has served as the nexus for print, media, and art needs in Forks. Their comprehensive services include logo development, graphic design, full-service printing, post-press bindery, and more. They also carry a wide range of office supplies and art necessities. Stop in for a drawing pad, a new pen, pastels, watercolors, inkjet cartridges, fax services, or digital color copies on acid-free, archival-quality paper.

Joyce Pagac owns Olympic Graphic Arts, and can be found there five days a week, always ready with a smile and a creative solution. Incepted by her father, built and operated by he and her brother, then passed on to Joyce when her father retired, the business has been in her family for over three decades. She has seen a great deal of change over the years from the pre-computer days when most artwork was hand drawn, type was set manually and full color printing was reserved for the wealthy.

Today, Olympic Graphic Arts' workflow is almost entirely digital, and utilizes the newest technologies in their industry allowing them to turn projects around far more quickly and cost-effectively than before. Client interaction has changed too, as more and more orders, quotes and proofs are completed using email, phone and fax. Drawing from a wide variety of resources all over the country, their team can take a printing project from concept to reality, without ever meeting the client in person. Business cards, stationary, advertising, custom-developed business forms, and more are developed remotely, proofed electronically and delivered via UPS.

Owing to their sensitivity to their clients' needs and their determined attention to detail, Olympic Graphic Arts has withstood the test of time. Now, embracing new technologies while maintaining the friendly, personal service characteristic of the small town they call home, they can look beyond the barriers of rural isolation and expand into tomorrow. Olympic Graphic Arts would love the chance to show more folks in the metropolitan Puget Sound that the most neighborly service might be found a little outside their neighborhood.
